Our City comment & discussion

by THOMAS D. WATSON

Time Is Ripe for Action on the Civic Center Plan

THE suggestion made in an interview yesterday by W. B. Kelly, which was printed in Wednesday's Press, is timely and should be given serious consideration by all citizens.

The purchase of the old high school site by the city for use as a civic center should be consummated at an early date. There is nothing to be gained by delay. The idea has been sold to a great many of our citizens and we believe a bond issue will carry by a big majority. Mr. Kelly suggests that a committee of five or seven citizens be named to form an advisory committee to work in conjunction with the city council and the chamber of commerce on all matters of public interest and that the members of this committee be chosen from different section of the city.

IF a plan such as this would aid in a further welding of community interest, we would be in favor of a committee such as he suggests. We are quite sure that both the city council and the chamber of commerce would welcome the co-operation of any body of citizens working for public welfare. However, we would think better results could be obtained if the membership of this committee were chosen from the different clubs of the city, each one to be the official representative of his club.

THE civics committee of the chamber of commerce is organized practically on these lines and with some slight change in order to represent all sections of the city, would probably be better able to handle civic matters than a new committee would. The powers of this committee would have to be increased so it could move independent of the chamber of commerce. Of course, the chamber of commerce should have the power to direct its own representatives as should the other clubs represented on the committee.

THERE has been a disposition on the part of a good many of our citizens to defer action on the civic center as well as other propositions, subject to the disposal of the sewer problem. We do not think that this would interfere in any way with any necessary action on the sewers. We fully recognize the paramount importance of sewers. We also recognize the fact that life is a progression, and that our city must move forward to hold its own with other communities.

THERE has been enough discussion of the civic center idea to justify immediate action. We understand that considerable data regarding the civic center has been secured by a committee of the Community Service of Glendale. This committee should prove beneficial in inaugurating the movement. If the proposition carries the playground and recreation work will probably be carried on by the Community Service. We believe the honor of starting the movement should belong to that organization.

HARDING IS GIVEN BACK TO MARION

Fifth Son of Ohio Brought Home From Presidency to Rest

DISPLAY AVOIDED

Funeral Train to Be Dissembled and Will Never Run Again

[By Associated Press]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Laden with all the honors the American people could bestow, the nation today gave Warren Harding back to Ohio.

Yesterday, while a republic mourned at his bier, the great government of which he was head, performed funeral ceremonies such as are reserved for departed presidents.

Tomorrow, in the shaded quiet of a grassy slope, Marion will entomb a citizen, the fifth son of Ohio brought home from the presidency to rest.

For at the express command of his heroic widow, there will be in Marion, none of the solemn and impressive display with which nations entomb chief magistrates. The caisson which carried his casket over the route traveled by the nation's great dead in Washington, will be replaced by the loving hands of fellow townsmen; the troops which escorted the body of a commander-in-chief, will be replaced by home folks doing their last duty for a friend and neighbor. The picture in the great vaulted dome of the capitol where the shades of the nation's other great lead locked down on the solemn ceremony will give way to a simple scene in the Marion cemetery, which will commit Warren G. Harding to the tomb like other native sons, before him.

Warren Harding left Washington forever last night and today he will be back among the home folks he loved so well to remain until judgment. The same train which bore him away from the capital confident and well a few short weeks ago and then returned him for a short day of ceremony, a figure of history, departed from Washington at six o'clock last night for the last part of its sorrowful journey.

Immediately afterward it will be dissembled and never run as one train again.

Tonight another train bearing a president westward will roll out of the capital, but it will not take Calvin Coolidge to represent at Marion the government over which he now presides. He will go, rather to pay the homage of a plain American at the tomb of a fallen chieftain, and to give expression to his personal sorrow over the loss of a dear friend. At yesterday's funeral ceremonies, his was among the most solemn of the many sorrowful faces in the great procession of woe that passed up Pennsylvania avenue. For to know Warren Harding well, was to love him and Calvin Coolidge had come thus to know and love him through the months of close association.

GLENDALE DAY AT HOLLYWOOD IS ANNOUNCED

City to Supply Program for the Evening of August 18

Glendale Community Service headquarters are in receipt of a message from Mrs. J. J. Carter, stating that Saturday, August 18, had been set apart as "Glendale day" at the Hollywood bowl summer concerts. On that night Miss Gertrude Cleophas, talented pianist, will be the soloist for the evening and will play an American composition, MacDowell's "Concerto." Community Service feels that this would be a splendid opportunity to advertise Glendale and are sending letters to the various organizations of the city, asking them to put the matter before their members.

This Saturday afternoon, August 11, at 4 o'clock there will be a free matinee concert for children at the bowl and a special invitation is extended to the Glendale children to be present.

Disgusted Burglar Writes Peevish Note

"Cheap skates," says the thief.

Suppose, for instance, you went home some night and found that your home had been generally scattered around.

Wouldn't that kinda peeve you?

But, listen. Suppose, also, that as you were making the rounds of your homey little domicile, going from room to room to see if the thief had, by any chance, forgotten to take the paper off the walls or the wax off the floor, you should pick your way among the debris to the bedroom, and should find on the dresser a note hearing the words:

"Cheap skates."

Well, wouldn't that stack another peeve on top of the first one?

That's what happened to E. L. Phillips of 361 Acacia avenue, last night. When he returned home at 6 o'clock he found the house open, entrance having been gained by the thief breaking the glass from the kitchen door.

"E. L." doesn't mind so much the place being entered, nor does he object so strenuously to a few little things being taken, but when a low-down sneak-thief leaves a "cheap skate" note just because the owner of the home had forgotten a few sacks of diamonds, several acres of silverware and numerous bales of $50 bills laying carelessly around as a reward to the crook for scattering things all over the block—well, that's where this home owner bucks.

Maybe the burglar was peeved, too.

EXCHANGE CLUB HONORS MEMORY OF HARDING

Framed Picture of Late Chief Executive Features Meeting

Memorial services in honor of the late President Harding, who was also an Exchangite, marked the beginning of the regular luncheon meeting on Wednesday of the Glendale Exchange club at its session in the Tuesday Afternoon club house. A framed picture of the president, the property of D. Ripley Jackson, suitably arranged for the occasion was placed on the table. The members showed their respect by bowing their heads in silence for several moments.

Routine business occupied the greater part of the business meeting. As the Exchange club had drawn up some resolutions to be handed to President Harding when he was to have visited Glendale and they had been engraved on parchment, it was decided that these should be forwarded to Mrs. Harding at Washington.

An amusing bit of entertainment for the members was provided by the duet on "Smiles" by two of the club's most recent benedicts, Claire Anspach and Arthur Sherborne. A group of three musical selections were rendered by Henry Cantor and were much appreciated.

The matter of having a ladies' night the latter part of August or early in September was brought up and arrangements will be announced later.

At the meeting of the club two weeks from yesterday an invitation will be extended to the officers of the Tuesday Afternoon club and also the Exchangettes, including the wives or sweethearts of members, to be the special guests at the noonday luncheon meeting. At that time the Exchange club will present to the Tuesday Afternoon club a painting that had been brought from abroad by Dr. Harrower and given to the Exchange club.

A report was given on the splendid progress being made by the Community band, which is being sponsored by the Exchange club.

COOLIDGE SHOWS EFFECT OF THE GREAT STRAIN

Transformation From a Carefree Man to Chief Executive, Apparent

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent

TEMPORARY WHITE HOUSE, WILLARD HOTEL, WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The national government of the United States moves tonight to Marion, Ohio.

President Coolidge is suffering from the strain. A week ago he was a jovial vice-president on a vacation in the remote regions of the Green mountains. His face was tanned. He had no worries. His world was carefree. But since then his country called.

The effect on his physical appearance was noticeable when he paid final homage at the national capitol to the departing spirit of Mr. Harding, escorting his body to the union station last night. Mr. Coolidge is not a nervous man or one easily wrought in times of stress, but he sat humped down in the seat of his limousine on the journey to the station, staring straight ahead through deep sunk eyes—pitiful with unshed tears.

The last journey of the body of Mr. Harding in Washington was made down from the capitol to the station through an endless aisle of white sailors and khaki soldiers.

A cooling rain through last night brought relief to the terrific heat which has held the city since Mr. Coolidge first came down a little less than a week ago to be president of the nation.

Hospital check-ups showed that 175 prostrations from the heat were treated during the rites.

AMUSEMENT PARK IS ANNOUNCED BY HADDOCK

Glendale-Verdugo to Be Clean Family Resort, He Declares

That the Happiland Amusement Park, which was formerly known as Glendale-Verdugo Park, will be conducted on the highest possible amusement plan, was the statement made this morning by Mr. Haddock of the Haddock & Nibley company, who with James Sams are owners of the property.

"A false impression has gone out," said Mr. Haddock this morning, "to the effect that this park will be a hurdy-gurdy affair with questionable devices, etc. This absolutely is not the case. We are going to keep this park clean in every way. Our aim is to make it a family amusement park—a place where any of the parents of Glendale or the surrounding country may take their children and be assured that they will see or hear nothing that will in any way degrade them. Various kinds of clean amusement features will be provided. We believe that this place will be a real credit and a big advertising feature for Glendale.

"The higher levels of the park will be taken up by cabins, which will be rented by the day, week or the season. Water and electricity will be piped to all of he cabins, which will be modern and comfortable.

"The people of Glendale need not fear that we will put anything in this park that will be a discredit to this city. The Happiland Amusement company consists of Mr. Nibley, Mr. Sams and myself. We did not, as rumor had it, sell to outside parties."

COMMUNITY BAND HAS REHEARSAL

He also reports that there are several other instruments coming in and will make up a very well balanced band.

A large percentage of the band members are experienced musicians, which will make possible the holding of a concert the first part of October. The band is already working on special pieces for that concert now. The band is composed of a mixed group of young women and men, taking in those of high school age and over. The next meeting of the band will be at the Cavanah Studio.

YEAR'S BUILDING OVER $6,000,000 LINE TODAY

Only $307,774 Less Than Total for All of 1922

At about 9 o'clock this morning the total valuation of the building permits in Glendale for the year went bouncing over the $6,000,000 mark, the exact figure being $3,197 in excess of that amount. This figure is just $302,774 less than the total for 1922, which amounted to $6,305,971.

"The building permits for the year are running just about on schedule," said "Van," the building superintendent this morning. "You know, just after 1923 came bouncing in we predicted that the permits for this year would total $10,000,000. Well, we're happy on the way, with the "lean" months of the year behind us. We're running on schedule, all right.

"I look for the biggest and best fall and winter in the building line that Glendale has ever seen. There's a feeling in the air that the winter activities have already started, although the summer is only half gone. You simply can't keep this little 'burg' back. She's a-rarin' to go right now—so watch our smoke!"

The permits for August, to date, have a valuation of $269,226—just $124,978 less than the entire of August, 1922—and this is only the 9th of the month.

Looks like a real time ahead.

The permits issued during the last 24 hours are as follows:

Joseph A. Hillis, 813 East Windsor, 8 rooms and garage.... $5,000
Jennie R. Detwiler, 146 South San Fernando, 11 auto camp units $25

TRUCK LOAD OF JAP WINE IS CAPTURED

Lieutenant Nunn Makes Important Seizure Early Today

GETS 720 BOTTLES

Japanese Drivers Are Taken Into Custody on Road

Once more Lieutenant Louis Nunn and Officer Blake bumped them over.

A motor truck containing 6 dozen quart bottles of Japanese wine, 30 sacks containing two dozen bottles each, was picked up by Lieutenant Louis Nunn and Officer Blake at the corner of San Fernando and Brand at 6 o'clock this morning as the truck was being driven north on San Fernando road.

On the truck were S. Hosakour, 556 Stanford street, Los Angeles, and J. Gamamoto, 623 North Fifth street, San Jose, both Japanese, who were immediately taken to the "bridal chamber" at the city hall, where they are being held on $500 cash bail or $1000 property bond. The charge against them is illegally transporting liquor.

The truck in which the liquor was being transported is being held by the local police department and may be confiscated. The 30 sacks of "fire water" are now being held at police headquarters. No time for the arraignment has been set.

The officers who made the arrest had been on duty all night. They had covered every section of Glendale and were getting ready to be relieved at 7 o'clock this morning when the truck containing the liquor "hove" in sight. The officers immediately became suspicious, and when the truck approached they signaled to the driver to stop. The machine drew up alongside the road and the "coppers" went to work. It took but a moment to get a lay of the land and to see that a real haul had been made. The officers climbed on the truck and commanded the operator to drive to the city hall.

WARREN HARDING REACHES HOME AT 1:12 P. M.

[By Associated Press]

MARION O., Aug. 9.—The body of Warren G. Harding at 1:12 o'clock this afternoon passed through the door of his father's home and into the parlor, to rest there until tomorrow when it is moved probably for the last time to the Marion cemetery for commitment.

It was followed a brief moment later by Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, who stepped with firm tread from the automobile at the curbstone and walked slowly beside George Christian, Jr., into the room where the casket was resting. The eight cabinet officers formed four on each side of the pathway as the widow walked up the pathway and then entered in columns of twos, heads still uncovered and bowed.

The little frame house had been dressed in mourning. The thousands who lined the streets held their places awaiting the completion of arrangements so they might pass into the parlor.

Soldiers, sailors and marines, composing the guard of honor and who had stood in details of four beside the casket since it left San Francisco last Friday evening, lifted the coffin from the hearse and bore it reverently into the home of the late president's father. Some difficulty was encountered when the front door was reached. The casket, however, was finally gotten inside the vestibule.

The delay added to the strain Mrs. Harding faced there. She stood in the pathway during the time the guardsmen struggled in their efforts to take the coffin into the house. Never once, however, did Mrs. Harding falter in step or in determination to remain calm and brave until the last, as she had promised on the evening her husband died.

LOS FELIZ COMPROMISE REJECTED

Twenty-one Demurs in Assessment Suits Filed Today

TO STAND TOGETHER

Committee of Tax Protective Association Makes Report

Rejecting the compromise, twenty-one suits brought in connection with the paving of Los Feliz road paving assessments by Steddom & Blanchard, lawyers of Los Angeles, were answered today by demurs by members of the Los Feliz Tax Protective association, it was announced today by L. W. Chobe, chairman of the association.

On behalf of the committee recently appointed to consider an offer of compromise from the lawyers, Mr. Chobe today announced that it had been decided that the firm demanded money not due and no concessions from the firm could be considered. The committee decided that the original assessment and 10 per cent accrued interest was fair. Nothing more than that should be paid. The following statement was issued by Mr. Chobe:

"At a regular meeting of the Los Feliz Tax Protective association, held August 6, reply to Steddom and Blanchard's proposal was left with committee of five, composed of L. W. Chobe, chairman; G. H. Wende, legal adviser; N. L. Dutton, Mrs. N. W. Terrill, and Mrs. Fannie Stone.

"On August 7, after a report received by committee from G. H. Wende and L. W. Chobe of thorough investigation made, committee decided that the demand for moneys made by Steddom and Blanchard (except original assessment and interest) is not due them nor legal, therefore concessions made by them in writing August 6 to organization, are not accepted and a refusal to pay any or all moneys, except original assessment and accrued 10 per cent interest, was decided upon.

"Twenty-one suits on which time limit is up will be answered by filing demur Thursday, August 9. Thirty more cases will be answered by filing demur Monday, August 13, and other cases will be answered in the same manner as fast as they come into the office of the association, 102-A East Broadway, before time limit expires.

"All those who have been or will be sued for this Los Feliz assessment, and do not wish to pay the exorbitant amount attached to the small original assessment, are invited to join this association, which was organized by those who are vitally interested to fight this in a body. The organization feels that this is an injustice and a possibility of a recurrence of this procedure must be eliminated, and now is the time, with the thought in mind that in unity there is strength.

"To explain in regard to cost to individuals to fight this case by joining the association is as follows: There is no charge for joining the association and as to attorney's fees, will quote Attorney G. H. Wende's letter to me:

"'Glendale, California,
"'August 6, 1923.

"'Mr. L. W. Chobe, Chairman Los Feliz Tax Protective Association.

"'Dear Sir:—You have asked me what my charges are for legal services in Los Feliz tax assessment cases.

KENT GETS HIS CADILLAC FROM COURT EN ROUTE

Writes Glendale Dealer of Joy in Car Delivered at St. Louis

Rotarians across the east extended ready welcome to Roy L. Kent, according to a letter received by William H. Court of the Court Motor Company, from the distinguished Glendale Rotarian, written from Meadville, Pa.

In the letter Mr. Kent indicated that he expected to roll into Glendale on September 1, in the Cadillac which the Court Motor company delivered to him at St. Louis. The following is the letter:

The Lafayette,
Meadville, Pa.
July 31, 1923.

Mr. W. H. Court,
Glendale, Calif.

Dear Bill:

Received your letter yesterday morning. It seems that I left New York before it arrived so it has been following me since July 9 and just caught up.

We are having a very enjoyable time. You will be glad to know that our Cadillac was waiting for us at St. Louis and was delivered to us not less than three hours after our arrival.

We were all delighted with the car and it was certainly convenient while attending the Rotary convention.

The car made it possible for us to see all the beauty spots of the city and suburbs, and also to make quick trips between the hotel and the convention hall which were quite some distance apart.

On the afternoon of June 22 we started east from St. Louis, stopping first at Springfield, Illinois, where we visited Lincoln's home and also his tomb as guests of the Rotary.

At Champaign, Illinois, we were guests of Mr. S. W. Byers, a Rotarian who spends his winters in Glendale.

We visited the University of Illinois here which is a very wonderful institutions comprising 1380 acres.

At Dayton, Ohio, we spent an afternon visiting the plant of the National Cash Register company.

Our journey took us east through Zaneville, Ohio, over the Cumberland Mountains in Southern Pennsylvania. The Blue Ridge Mountains, and the Shenandock Valley. At Hoegerstown, Maryland, we left the National Old Trails highway forGettysburg. Our visit to the historic battlefields was very interesting as well as very educational.

This battleground is now maintained as a National Park by the United States government, and comprises about 16,000 acres. The boulevards occupy 1200 acres and 800 memorials of different sizes line the roadways and dot the battlefields.

Our next stop was Washington, D. C., where we visited nearly all the beautiful public buildings, parks, etc., and also visited Arlington cemetery, Va., and Washington's home at Mount Vernon.

After four days spent in the nation's capital we journeyed north through Baltimore to Philadelphia, where we visited Independence Hall and made a trip over to Valley Forge, which is maintained by the state of Pennsylvania as a state park.

We arrived in New York July 7 and I had the honor and pleasure of attending the National Council Conference Boys Scouts of America at Bear Mountain, where many men of world wide and national reputation were in attendance, including Teddie Roosevelt and General Pershing. While here we had the pleasure of witnessing a review of cadets at West Point on the occasion of the visit of the governor of New York. We remained in the vicinity of New York for ten days and continued north to Boston, Lexington and Concord, then west through the New England states where we had many pleasant experiences to Saratoga Springs, Rochester and Niagara Falls.

This last week we have been visiting the scenes of my boyhood which has been very enjoyable. To date we have traveled 3450 miles on a consumption of 239 gallons of to the tires since taking possession of the car. We have had no trouble whatever and the weather has been wonderful.

We have experienced a few refreshing summer showers but that is to be expected in this country.

We will be leaving here in four or five days and will motor to Denver at least, and will arrive in Glendale on or before September 1.

Wishing you continued prosperity, I am,

Yours truly,

MOURNING CLAD MARION AWAITS TRAIN'S ARRIVAL

Saddest Ordeal in Her History Is Set for Friday

By TOM W. GERBER
United Press Staff Correspondent

MARION, O., Aug. 9.—Marion awoke today to face the saddest ordeal of her history.

The home town, only a year ago festooned with flags and bright colors in celebration of the last previous return of the president, was today decorated with the sombre colors of mourning.

Early today Center street, along the route from the Union station to the home of the president's father, was roped off.

Militiamen were staioned at every intersection to keep back the throngs eager to watch the procession.

Outside the city on the main highways leading into Marion were other soldiers, diverting automobilists to parking space in the county fair grounds and nearby fields.

At the station a gray motor hearse and twenty automobiles awaited the arrival of the funeral train.

As the hour the funeral train was due approached the crowd around the station steadily increased. The people had the demeanor of mourners at the funeral of a friend, rather than witnesses of the last rites to be accorded a president of the United States.

Many of those who lined the curbstones of "Warren's home town" knew him personally. They felt that one of the home folks had died.

Although there is to be no military display in connection with the funeral, the presence of thousands of militiamen gave the town almost the aspects of a city in a war zone.

In the downtown section the little restaurants were jammed.

Lobbies of the three small hotels boiled with excited strangers.

Hundreds of cottages are hung with white and black mourning, and almost every window displays a photograph.

The house where the president will lie in state that his friends and neighbors may look upon him for the last time is a two-story white frame dwelling with an old-fashioned cupola. It is a typical small town home, with a moderate sized lawn. Similar houses and smaller cottages flank it. Across the street a flaring advertising signboard confronts it from a vacant lot. But this eyesore has been toned down by having its edges decorated with crepe and its face—whereon the deliciousness of a breakfast food is described—covered wiht white gauze through which the lettering can hardly be seen.

All the neighbors were out this morning in their Sunday best clothes and with very solemn faces to greet their friend on his last home coming. They sat in chairs on the lawns and stared at the old house. They had invited their relatives and some had brought along babies who cried at intervals.

The air in the vicinity of the house was heavy with the odor of flowers. Scores of floral offerings were displayed on the lawn. They bore the cards of the people who had been associated with the president when he was just "plain folks" like the rest of the people here. Six carloads of flowers, bearing cards fo diplomats and other distinguished personages are en route here from Washington to be mingled with the home tributes.

Shortly before 10 o'clock thousands of people were lining the railroad tracks leading into Marion to see the train come in. The line stretched for miles.

Through Center street, the heart of Marion's business district, the concourse will go directly to Dr. Harding's home, where, after 2 p. m., the body will lie in state.

Every arrangement for the funeral made by Col. Frank P. Lahn, President Coolidge's personal representative, and Hoke W. Donithen, lawyer and personal friend of the Hardings, has been made with the one purpose of saving Mrs. Harding the ordeal of a ceremonious funeral.

No sermon will be preached, no bands will play; there will be neither flashing of sabers, rumble of artillery wheels nor firing of salutes to mark the laying away of President Warren G. Harding.

In preparation for the burial, six white pillars, surrounded by eagles, have been erected in front of the otherwise plain public vault at Marion cemetery.

Around the vault a space sufficient to accommodate the members of the mourning party will be roped off and the thousands who come to pay a last tribute to the nation's dead chief will find their own positions on the grass covered slopes surrounding the vault.

The hearse which will carry the president's remains was specially built and was driven here during the night from Ravenna, O. It is gray with small glass panels in the sides. In each panel is a Masonic emblem.

'SALOMY JANE' OPENS FRIDAY AT THE T. D. & L.

Night scenes among the great redwoods of Boulder Creek canyon, Northern California, are one of the attractive spectacles of "Salomy Jane," a Paramount picture, which is scoring heavily at the T. D. & L. theater this week. These inspiring scenes were made possible by a huge battery of electric arc lights and the achievement is one more step in the advancement of the technique of making motion pictures.

Gatherings of the Vigilantes by night, a stage robbery during a midnight storm, rides along roads bordered by black forests—all these are made possible by the use of electric lights.

The George Melford production, "Salomy Jane," is a tale of the romantic days of '49 when the law was crudely meted out by the Vigilantes, an organization of settlers formed to keep the peace.

"The Man," a stranger in Red Dog, falls victim to this primitive justice. He is accused of robbing a stage coach and when about to be led away to be hanged is kissed good-bye by Salomy Jane, an impulsive daughter of a pioneer. The stranger escapes but Red Pete, also charged with the hold-up, is hanged. Returning to thank Salomy for her kiss, the man meets an old enemy, Baldwin, and in the struggle Baldwin is shot by another man in ambush.

Fearing that he may be blamed for Baldwin's death, he attempts to escape by wearing the clothes of Madison Clay, Salomy's father. Larabee, a rough pioneer and an enemy of Clay's, shots at the man by mistake. In the ensuing fight Larabee is wounded. Dying, he confesses that Baldwin was the stage coach robber. The love romance of the stranger and Salomy ends happily.

Jacqueline Logan plays the role of "Salomy Jane," while George Fawcett takes the part of "Yuba Bill," a stage-coach driver, and Maurice Flynn portrays "The Man." They are supported by a strong cast of some of the most talented players of the screen.

MRS. WALLACE HAS SURPRISE FOR GUEST

Mrs. J. D. Wallace, 141 South Cedar, was the hostess at a delightful surprise party given at her home Wednesday in celebration of the birthday of her sister, Mrs. D. W. Maeyers, who was the guest of honor and who was entirely unaware of the pleasure in store until she arrived. About twenty neighbors and friends were entertained and Mrs. Wallace was assisted by Mrs. Wilbur and Mrs. Grinnell, who served punch and cake. Mrs. Maeyers was much pleased with the birthday remembrances she received and completely surprised, especially when the birthday cake made its appearance bearing but 16 candles. She was equal to the occasion, however, and cut the cake so that everyone received a share.

FOOTHILL FOLKS START DRIVE FOR SO. CAL. BRANCH

At the meeting of the Foothill Improvement association held Monday night at the Grand View school with Alexander Mitchell, president, in charge, the members of that organization went on record as favoring the securing of the Southern Branch of the University of California in Glendale, along the line outlined by Marco Hellman at the banquet in Glendale Monday night. The Foothill Improvement association will join with other organizations in Glendale towards this end. The location favored by the association as being the most desirable for the branch university was the Pellanconi estate of about 200 acres, adjoining the ten acres bought by Glendale for a junior high school site on Glenwood road.

Other matters of interest to that section of the city that were discussed included the matter of street lights. The members of the organization also expressed themselves as favoring the establishment of a small park to adjoin the new Southern Pacific depot.

REV. MR. COLE AND FAMILY GO EAST

Dr. Clifford Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church of Glendale, Mrs. Cole and their son Connor are leaving the first of the week for Wichita, Kan., their former home, where they will visit relatives of Mrs. Cole. They will return via Colorado Springs where they will attend the national Christian church convention to be held September 2 to 9. At the California State convention of the Christian church held at Long Beach last week, Dr. Cole was appointed to represent the state in the committee of recommendations at the national convention at Colorado Springs. It is the most important committee of the convention and will probably be in session most of the time. Dr. Cole also has a place on the program, his subject being "Training the Leadership of the Church."

He will occupy the pulpit here on Sunday and arrangements have been made to fill it during his absence. Rev. Arthur T. Ritchie of Sacramento will preach on the 19th of August, and Rev. Willard Learned, who leaves for the African mission field the first of September, will preach on the 26th. It may be the last time to hear him before he and Mrs. Learned set sail. His boyhood was spent here where he and Mrs. Learned have a host of friends.

Rev. Arthur Braden, dean of the California Christian college, of Los Angeles, will preach on September 2.

Delegation of Church Folks to Join Him There

Dr. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian Church, is leaving Monday morning to attend the Synod at Asilomar, which opens there the 14th and closes the 24th. Quite a group of Glendalians will also be in attendance including Mr. and Mrs. David Black and their daughter, Miss Esther Black, who have been touring the north; Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Harrison and daughter Inez, who have also been gone for some time on a camping trip; D. L. Foster, who will represent the Board of Elders; H. L. Finley, superintendent of the Sunday school; Mr. and Mrs. John Horsch and their daughter, Miss Jennie Horsch, who is in charge of Mexican mission work at Azusa and who is maintained by the Glendale Presbyterian Church. Dr. Edmonds is going in advance of the opening that he may attend an important committee conference on foreign missions.

TUESDAY CLUB YEAR BOOK IS ALMOST READY

As the year book of the Tuesday Afternoon Club for 1923-24 will soon go into the hands of the printers, all members who have changed their residences or their telephone numbers since the last year book was published, are asked to send such changes without delay to Mrs. A. A. Barton, social secretary, at the club house. Also, all ladies contemplating joining the club are asked to send in their applications at once that they may be acted upon by the board and their names be included in the printed roster of the club for the coming year.

MISS GARTON NOW OFFICIAL OF THE WOMEN'S SOCIETY

Miss Lulu Ethel Garton, who has been assisting Dr. Clifford Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church, was last week selected at the state convention at Long Beach to fill the office of corresponding secretary of the Women's Society of the state, a position filled for many years by Mrs. Alice Jackson of this city, aunt of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones. Miss Garton, who is a sister of Mrs. Clifford A. Cole, has served as a missionary in India and is especially well qualified for the office. It will take her from Glendale and she will be missed here, where she has many friends.

LANDSCAPES OF SO. CAL. TO BE ON EXHIBITION

The Southwest Museum is making definite plans to hold an exhibit illustrative of the work of the landscape architects of Southern California.

A preliminary announcement which was sent out some time ago has demonstrated a sufficient interest to warrant the certainty and success of such an exhibit.

Our present plan is to group the exhibits under the four following headings: City planning, private estates, subdivisions, city parks. Those intending to exhibit are urged to submit their entries by August 25—the exhibit will open September 1.

All landscape architects of Southern California are cordially invited to exhibit. A competent jury composed of the standing art committee of the museum and technical men in the profession, whose names will be announced later, are to pass upon the entries under the four classifications, previously mentioned.

Deaths and Funerals

LYNN L. LEACH, III

Lynn L. Leach, III., passed away this morning, August 9, 1923, at his home at 1600 Grand View, at the age of 14 years, 9 months and 22 days. He was born October 17, 1908, at Albuquerque, New Mexico, and is survived by his parents.

Lynn Leach, III., was a graduate this spring from the Wilson Avenue Intermediate School. Heart trouble was the cause of his death. Funeral arrangements will be announced later. Kiefer & Eyerick, undertaking directors, are in charge.

UNIQUE STUNTS IN THE 'MAN FROM GLENGARRY'

Those who see Ernest Shipman's production, "The Man From Glengarry," a picturization of Ralph Connor's widely read novel, shown at the Glendale theater tonight, will have an opportunity to witness some of the most unique stunts that have ever been flashed on the screen.

One of the most interesting and entertaining incidents is a log-rolling or "log-birrelling" contest which is staged between two expert lumberjacks. As a test of skill in balance and surefootedness, slack-wire walking has nothing on this. Two men stand upright on a large slippery log in the center of the stream. Each one of them proceeds to manipulate the log with his feet by running similar to a man trying to walk on a barrel or revolving globe. The log proceeds to spin faster and faster. The ease and dexterity which these lumberjacks display in maintaining their footing on the rapidly revolving log is remarkable and is one of the entertaining incidents in the picture.

In one scene wherein one "log roller" strives to show his supremacy over another, rivalry and zeal overmastered wisdom. The log spinning became a real contest and one spinner was hurled from his revolving perch into the chill and turbulent river.

Of course, this was going beyond what the director had suggested, but it was the real thing as the camera caught it and the scene will bring a grin to the face of every old timberjack who sees it flashed on the screen, and a sigh of approval too, for it's genuine stuff, as is also the laughter and waving of pike poles of the other raftsmen as they watched the vanquished roller fight his way to shore.

EMERSON SCHOOL CLOSES SEASON

Following the recital demonstration program of the work of students of the Emerson School of Expression, given at the Congregational church Tuesday evening, the school is closing its summer term with a party for members of the junior department this afternoon at the school. At this party three prizes for excellence will be awarded, the winners having been selected in part by the votes of the audience at the recital Tuesday evening and partly by their averages for the term's work. The first prize will go to Adele Loyd, second to Beth Morrish and third to Martha Warfield. The school will be closed until the last week in September.

The recital mentioned drew an audience of 500 or more who manifested their appreciation of the program in an enthusiastic manner. The stage was very beautifully decorated with huge bouquets of prize dahlias, the gifts of friends of the school, and with other flowers.

The easiest way to do a thing may not be the best, but it is the most popular.

Rheumatic Neuritis

Says His Prescription Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pain and Twinges —Is Guaranteed.

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of ALLENRHU, the sure conquerer of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

ALLENRHU has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of ALLENRHU, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless ALLENRHU decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance.

Pile Sufferers! This New Discovery Will Rid You of Piles (Hemorrhoids) Forever

Has completely Cured Cases of Several Years' Standing in from Three to Eight Days. Guaranteed by All Good Druggists.

Perhaps the most amazing discovery of recent years in the field of medicine is the discovery that Piles can now be successfully treated and cured at home by a wonderful substance called MOAVA. This substance in the form of a suppository is inserted into the rectum where by its soothing, healing action all pain and soreness is allayed and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles causes them to heal up and disappear forever.

It's positively marvelous how speedily it acts. Blessed relief often comes after the use of the first suppository even in cases with profuse bleeding that have resisted all known treatments; often after operation, really wonderful results have been accomplished.

The discoverer of this truly wonderful substance has instructed druggists all over the country to guarantee MOAVA SUPPOSITORIES in every case of blind, bleeding or protruding piles, in fact goes so far as to say that he doesn't want a cent of any sufferer's money, even in the worst cases unless it absolutely does what is claimed for it.—Adv.

Glendale Team to Clash With Hoffman Outfit From Los Angeles

ON PARK AVE. LOT

Only Female in Sport to Be a Distinctive Note in Game

Next Sunday on the home lot at Park avenue and San Fernando road, the Glendale team takes on the strong Paul G. Hoffman team of Los Angeles. The Hoffman team took first place honors in the South Coast league and last Sunday it handed the Catalina team its first defeat in many months. This ought to be a tough job for Glendale. Last Sunday the team did not play and Manager Walt Heidler spent the day looking for new material to fill the weak spots in the Glendale team.

He has succeeded in signing up some real stars including "Pep" Kerwin, sport writer and manager of the baseball department of the B. H. Dyas company. "Pep" is a wonderful catcher and a good hitter and will be a big help to the Glendale team. Manager Walt feels he is very fortunate in landing this star. He also signed Pat Collins, the Pasadena whirlwind infielder and "Slim" Ward, a tall first baseman. With this new stuff for Glendale, Sunday's game should be a humdinger.

Another big attraction for this game will be Miss Nina Bell Hurst, said to be the only official lady umpire in the world. Miss Hurst will have full charge of the game and from her past performances she has proved as capable as any "he" umpire. Game will be called at 2:30 sharp.

'PENROD AND SAM' AT THE GATEWAY THEATRE

That "the course of true love never runs smooth" is examplified in a highly amusing manner in "Penrod and Sam," a First National picture directed by William Beaudine from Booth Tarkington's immortal story. Gareth Hughes and Mary Philbin are the players involved in this humorous episode, enacting the roles of Robert Williams and Margaret Schofield, opening today at the Gateway.

Robert is enamored of Margaret and his weekly calls on her are signals for her parents and the other members of the family to desert the parlor and allow the young couple the freedom of the room. Much to his disgust, her father is compelled to finish his newspaper in the dining room.

On one such occasion he fell asleep while reading and when he awakened and looked at his watch he discovered that it had stopped. There was only one way to find out the correct time, in order to set his watch aright, and that was to ask Robert.

"Do you know what time it is, Robert?" he inquired, genially.

Robert blushed guiltily, jumped up from the sofa and rushed toward the door, with Schofield looking after him in bewilderment. When he realized that the young suitor had interpreted the question as a hint that he ought to leave, Schofield burst into paroxysms of laughter, while his daughter stalked to her room indignantly.

Humorous situations abound in "Penrod and Sam," one of the finest cinematic productions of the season.

Some men are fully as contrary as some women.

600,000 BOY SCOUTS MOURN PRESIDENT

Harding Was Honorary President of the National Organization

More than 600,000 Boy Scouts and Scout leaders throughout the nation have been mourning the death of President Harding, who in addition to being President of the United States, was honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America.

Plain, sincere Boy Scout services have been conducted during the past week in some 25,000 Boy Scout troops in respect and honor of the great man whom every Boy Scout loved and revered.

President Harding was an enthusiastic booster for the Boy Scout movement. He was elected honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, at the annual meeting of the national council held in New York, March 7, 1921. At that time Mr. Harding declared, "I am with the Boy Scout movement heart and soul. It is an organization teaching the spirit of service and honor which we must always have in our citizenship. It is a school of democracy because of it, standing is won only by taking the equal opportunity given all individuals to show their own merit, capacity and worth. I wish every boy in America could have the advantage and the honor of being in the Boy Scout organization and of learning therein that cooperation, justice, the customs of fair play and the gentleness of good manners make for peace and growth as distinguished from the results of disorganization and selfishness and cowardice which lead to conflict and contention."

When the Scout movement recently started the campaign for 100,000 new members, Mr. Harding was among the first to enthusiastically endorse the project and went to some personal pains to put it over.

All during the trip of President Harding across the country and on his Alaskan excursion, Boy Scouts were detailed to meet the President at his various stops and aided in guarding him during his stay.

Every troop in the Verdugo Hills district has held quiet services in respect to the President and the flags are flying at half-mast for their great friend, who is no more.

FINAL PICNIC CALL FOR THE IOWANS

President A. B. Shaw of the Iowa association is making this final call for all Iowans to rally for the mammoth picnic reunion in Bixby Park, Long Beach, Saturday, August 11. Plans are completed to care for 60,000 people and the county headquarters will enable friends to meet in the vast throng. The program will follow the picnic dinner hour and the college reunions will come after the program.

HARDING IS HONORED BY REALTORS

With Bowed Heads Turned Westward, Members Pay Silent Tribute

With bowed head and with their weekly meeting of the board Wedabout 50 members of the Glendale realty board, assembled at the weekly meeting of the board Wernesday noon in the Egyptian cafe, paid a silent tribute to Warren G. Harding, the late President of the United States.

Shortly after the routine business of the meeting was over, C. B. Guthrie arose and suggested that the silent tribute be paid the departed President. A moment later every realtor in the room quietly rose and with heads bowed low paid their silent respects to the former leader and friend of the United States. At the command by Mr. Guthrie of, "As you were," those present resumed their seats.

"Tom" Ingersol, formerly secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and now secretary of the Los Angeles realty board, was the principal speaker of the meeting.

He commended the board on its beautiful tribute to this country's late president, and told of his intimate association with Mr. Harding, before his election and during his office as President. He recalled being at the meeting of the National Press club at Washington, where the candidacy for the highest office in the country was announced.

Mr. Ingersol recalled to the minds of the local board members their obligation to their clients.

"Much responsibility in connection with the building up of this section rests with you men," said Mr. Ingersol. "When a man or a woman has saved his pennies and his dollars for years in order to collect enough for the first payment on a home, it is up to you people to see that they get a square deal, and that their money is not lost in their efforts to secure a home-nest for themselves.

"The Los Angeles realty board has devised or assembled a code of ethics which it hopes will be taken up by the National Association of Real Estate Boards and urged on all the boards in this entire country. It hopes to make it obligatory on every one desiring to get into any realty board of the country to adopt this code and to put it into daily practice in his business.

"It is a privilege to belong to organizations like the Glendale realty board and I feel sorry for those who are on the outside. It is your duty, not only to see how much you can get out of this board and out of your business, but also to help those who are struggling along the way. Let's join and do better and bigger things for the craft."

Dr. Jessie A. Russell announced that a special speaker will be present at the next meeting of the board and that the subject of his talk will probably be "Insurance Loans."

Dr. Russell also announced that she had been appointed chairman of the San Fernando valley for the caravan committee to have charge of the automobiles which will attend the next state convention in October. Tentative names of those expecting to attend this convention were called for, as many as possible to be handed to her before the next meeting.

Realtor James W. Pearson reported that the multiple listing committee has met five times during the last three weeks and that the committee find there is a great deal of indifference with regard to the system among the members.

Mr. Pearson stated that the committee suggested that instead of endeavoring to put the entire board under the multiple system, that a multiple listing group be formed, to carry along within itself the requirements of the multiple listing system.

A. M. Yale, who was acting as chairman of the meeting in the absence of President Cameron Thom, stated that this topic is a very important one. He said he believed it would be a good thing to form such a group and not to endeavor to compel those who do not want to come in to follow the rules of the system.

GLENDALE THEATRE TO OBSERVE DAY OF MOURNING

The Glendale Theatre will be dark all Friday during the daylight, in observation of the national day of mourning, it was announced today by William Howe.

H. W. SCUDDER'S GRANDSON WINS PRIZE AS VIOLINIST

H. W. Scudder, of 320 West Harvard received word a few days ago from Akron, Ohio, that his grandson, Stanley Scudder, aged 12, had distanced all competitors and been awarded the cash prize in an annual contest for the best work done by a pupil in a certain school of instruction for the violin, which was thought to be remarkable for one so young. This boy's cousin, also of Akron, is very proficient on the violin, as is a girl cousin living in Glendale, Mr. Scudder says.

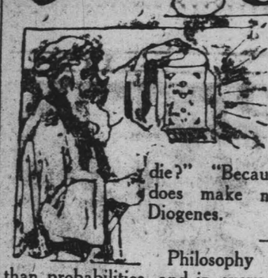
Truths in Epigram



Thales said there was no difference between life and death. "Why then," someone said to him, "do you not die?" "Because," said he, "it does make no difference." — Diogenes.

Philosophy goes no further than probabilities, and in every assertion keeps a doubt in reserve.—Froude.

EASING THE STRAIN

Senator Cummins suggests that presidential incumbency be limited to a single term, advancing the novel reason (the fact itself not being novel) that the strain of the responsibility is too great to be endured for eight years. The practice of electing a President for a second term is well established. Probably it could not be changed by anything less than legislative inhibition.

However, it is possible that there may be other ways of meeting the recurring emergency. The statement often has been made, and is generally accepted, that a President is required to do a vast amount of work of which he should be relieved. That the chief executive of a great nation should look after such details as the appointment of postmasters and collectors and commissioners of the land office, appears little less than absurd. He has the selection of his cabinet. Gathering about him men in whose judgment he has confidence, it is singular that each should not be entrusted with the choosing of the subordinates in his own department. This would take from the President an immense aggregate of worry. He could then excuse himself from listening to the arguments and bickerings of rival factions.

That Presidents are overworked is a truth that has more than once been deeply impressed on the people. Under the strain Wilson broke down utterly, and for his successor the emblems of mourning still are displayed. Yet both were men of at least ordinary powers of resistance. Even the single term rule could not have helped in the case of Harding.

Why not lessen the burden itself rather than the period for which it must be borne?

VISIBILITY TOO LOW

Considerable interest, aroused by the exposure of sinister police control in Los Angeles, continues. The fact has been made clear enough that, with stealth, and possibly with guile, an invisible government has been functioning there. The personnel of this government is permitted to maintain still too low a visibility. What the public wants is that the entire dramatis personae be dragged out of hiding, the light turned full upon it, and its make-up, methods and purpose stand revealed.

There did seem for a time more than a likelihood that the citizens organized with the object of checking crime, were in a fair way to find out the nature of the opposition they were meeting. The then chief, Oaks, had discovered that he was being ruled by a power that had no legitimate authority, and yet that was too strong for him to combat alone. He made an appeal to the public and the public was ready to back him to the utmost. At this critical point Mayor Cryer cut off the chief's official head. There has been no explanation of this arbitrary conduct from the mayor. It does not seem that any is needed. Oaks had stepped on the toes of the meddlesome politicians, and Cryer had hastened to the rescue, not of Oaks, but of the politicians.

In the circumstances, what show has a new chief? The answer appears to be "None whatever." True, he is supposed to have a free hand. So he is assured by the mayor. Similarly, Oaks received a comforting assurance from the same source in the beginning. It meant nothing then, and there is not the slightest reason to assume that it means anything now.

LEADING A DOUBLE LIFE

Arrest of a man "alleged" as the cautious reporter says, to have committed burglary, brought out the singular fact that in part of his social contacts, he had passed as a respectable person. He was caught at night in front of a safe that had just been opened, and discovering the danger of arrest, had leaped from a window, breaking a leg as he struck the pavement. Immediately followed the disclosure that he was well known in higher sporting circles, indeed, had been a figure of importance there. There were many friends who had, up to this moment, enough confidence in him to have advanced money on request, averting the necessity for rifling safes. At first it was a mystery how an individual of such standing could have turned thief. Then as the record was baied the mystery was as to how a thief of varied activities could have such standing.

Save in extreme and rare cases, amounting to insanity, there is no "double life;" the rogue disguises himself, that is all. When he is apprehended the fact that at times he has essayed a decent role does not count in his favor, but against him. It shows that his deflection from the straight path was deliberate. It affords grounds for belief that the appearance of honesty had been assumed as part of the plan to be dishonest. There does not arise any occasion for calling in the expert alienist. The natural demand is for calling the police.

WISDOM OF SILENCE

"When Demaratus was asked whether he held his tongue because he was a fool, or for want of words, he replied 'A fool cannot hold his tongue.'" Plutarch.

President Coolidge, whatever mistakes he may make, seems to be in no danger of saying anything that he will have cause to regret, or that he will have to explain. He is in no sense loquacious. Such ideas as may be in his mind concerning the powers tragically thrust into his hands, he is keeping to himself. He possesses the great gift of silence.

While this trait may pique the eager correspondent somewhat, it will be recognized generally not only as the part of wisdom, but in accord with the best taste. It would not be seemly at this time for the President, so newly and so suddenly in office, to herald his intentions. As Carlyle said, "Speech is great but silence is greater."

The people of this country have confidence in President Coolidge. They cannot but be glad that he is classed as a conservative, for quick changes of policy, taken when there had not been time for mature reflection, might lead to disaster. There is comfort in the fact that while correspondents have plied the President with questions, he has courteously declined to be led into any but a general outlining of policy. The correspondents, along with the rest of the public will have to accept Mr. Coolidge as he reveals himself in conduct and not in academic utterance. The public looks forward serenely to the revelation.

Wall street reports the absence of disturbance over the change of administration. This is fortunate for the country and for the reputation of the street. There could have been no occasion for alarm, and any alarm indicated would have been recognized as an artificial product.

From Berlin comes the report that the new president of the university is noted as an anti-Semitic zealot and a rabid hater of women. If he has virtues to offset these manifest follies he surely is singularly endowed.

DITCHING THE USELESS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Having written that caption I looked it over in discouragement.

As if there were any hope of people at large being willing to ditch the useless. Just the same I shall make a few remarks on the results that might follow such a move.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

Stamboulisky, the "peasant premier" who for four years presided over the destinies of Bulgaria, so thoroughly abhorred the useless that, finding two silent letters in the Bulgarian alphabet, he threw them out.

How much energy I wonder do each of us annually waste writing the silent letters in the English alphabet? Take the word though. Three letters in it are sounded and the others silent. When we write it we use double the necessary energy and when the same thing is done day after day and repeated through innumerable words and unlimited years we consume vast reserves of energy that might with profit be applied to doing something that would bring us returns.

It is the same with the giving and receiving useless gifts because somebody has decreed that gifts are incumbent on people at fixed times. We withhold gifts to those whom they would bless "because we can't afford them" and we give to those who are surfeited, because of some fancied obligation.

So firmly fixed in the national mind is the idea of exchange that we can't accept a favor without trying to figure out a way to pay for it; ultimately the chances are that we will send to our benefactors some kind of gift that he does not want and force him to write a note of thanks that he does not mean. Valuable energy twice wasted not to mention money foolishly expended.

What is more useless than the average dessert at the average dinner? Leave it off if you have the courage and see how much more your guests will enjoy the substantial dinner. Yet I know a sensible woman who has tried time and again to get rid of the worry and annoyance of desserts and every time she leaves it off her menu her family argue her into putting it back. Why? Because it is their view, though they do not put it into words, that it is "proper" to serve dessert, meaning to be sure that such service denotes financial prosperity and the prestige that goes with it. But both the service and the arguments became useless and waste of time and energy.

Capping the peak of the useless is the inane custom of wearing furs in midsummer. Money spent for a fur neckpiece to be worn in July or August is money thrown to the winds or money spent to advertise imbecility. In the aggregate how many valuable dollars lose their potentialities of service through this bit of useless buying?

Useless words flow down the stream of the years in a steady stream. Words that mean nothing, that bore, that exhaust, that irritate, that weary. Vapid compliments, boasts set afloat to save face, complaints made by force of habit. And each and every useless word consumes time and strength.

And then there is the army of useless customs, useless people, useless meetings, useless possessions; there is the useless care given to keepsakes that keep alive regrets and heirlooms that have lost their function.

No wonder the world is aweary and half distracted; we do so many useless things that the necessity and valuable things are perforce relegated to the limbo of forgotten things.

Oh for some genius who will make it fashionable to ditch the useless.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

SLANG

(Find the error in this article)

Some of the many expressions one should not use in the presence of persons of refinement are the following: He has wheels in his head; She is all togged out tonight; It ain't no use; He don't know nothin'; Have you any spondulix? Yes siree; Don't give me any of your sass.

Here are a few more: Have my pants been mended? Is he on the level? The fellow is nutty; Not on your life! That is a nobby suit he has on; That's me; It is me; I'm mad! You can't learn me anything; He is laying down; I'll be jiggered if I do! Is that so!

The foregoing expressions, most of them vulgar, and many more of similar character, should be eschewed, if one is desirous of not standing out as uncouth among educated and refined people. A few comments on some of the examples may prove helpful.

Enunciate g, the last letter of nothing. Try to improve your enunciation and pronunciation. Never use the word ain't. Never be guilty of employing a double negative; as, I won't do nothing. The right word is trousers not pants. The following is correct: This is I; It is I. Say, "I am angry," not, "I am mad." Never say learn me. Teach me is correct. "He is lying down" is correct, not, laying down. The elimination of slang and other vulgar expressions from your speech cannot but be beneficial, I'll tell the world.

Yesterday's Error

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

The biting acid of tragedy etches the figure imperishably upon the enduring brass of memory.

It is like the toning of the picture to preserve it forever for the mind and eye.

And the world has had many examples.

Our own Christian world in the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

The crucifixion was the biting acid of tragedy that preserved imperishably the memory of the founder of Christianity.

His disciples and friends who gathered about the cross wondered and were afraid.

Their hearts were filled with grief and bitterness.

We can dimly imagine the storm in the hearts of them as the night came on, and the figure of the Master hung limp.

* * *

It was not theirs then to realize how that brutal crucifixion was to fix the figure upon the cross imperishably upon the minds and hearts of millions.

Theirs was only keen and poignant grief and sorrow.

Their eyes were misted with the tears that filled them for the loss of their companion and friend and counselor and teacher.

They had perhaps little if any vision of the marvel that was to come.

The world brought to the teaching of the simple Man in a far country, who talked on hillsides and by the shore of seas where fishermen sought their fishes with nets.

With no crucifixion the picture might have faded.

The memory have died away.

The teaching been lost.

And the world deprived of its greatest treasure.

The Man gave all that the world might have more light.

It is ever so with sacrifice.

We have had two examples in the past sixty years.

It was the biting tragedy of assassination that etched the beauty of Lincoln imperishably upon the tablet of brass or stone.

Made him the great and heroic figure of the nation.

Without it the picture might have faded.

The world might have been deprived in part of one of its greatest inspirations.

His life was heroic.

The manner of his death sealed and stamped and preserved that heroism forever.

That for all time America and the world might draw inspiration from him.

The figure is etched.

The picture is preserved.

The heroism is sealed with the life of the man.

The inspiration is made certain and sure.

The little cries are stilled.

The little judgments are withheld and hushed.

Shines only the soul of the man in its majesty and splendor.

The picture shows clearly and with softness, as light might fall upon a face through cathedral windows.

The lines of care and worry and struggle are softened.

Human judgment realizes its haste and fallibility and sometimes harshness and cruelty.

As a great English author wrote:

"How else but through a broken heart could Lord Christ enter in?"

Songs of the Poets

The Lover's Song—By Edward Rowland Sill

Lend me thy fillet, Love!
I would no longer see:
Cover mine eyelids close awhile,
And make me blind like thee.

Then might I pass her sunny face,
And know not it was fair;
Then might I hear her voice, nor guess
Her starry eyes were there.

Ah! banished so from stars and sun—
Why need it be my fate?
If only she might dream me good
And wise, and be my mate!

Lend her thy fillet, Love!
Let her no longer see:
If there is hope for me at all,
She must be blind like thee.

THE OTHER MAN

By DR. FRANK CRANE

EVERY man is accompanied always by an Other Man.

This Other Man is his servant. He does ninety-nine hundredths of his master's work.

He never speaks. He never sleeps. He never takes a vacation. He works every minute, every second, night and day from the minute he is born until he dies.

Perhaps in calling him servant we err. Occasionally he is, but most of the time he goes along without instructions. It might be more accurate to say that the man himself, the Ego, is No. 1, and this Other Man is No. 2.

We have sometimes wondered who keeps the heart beating while Ego is asleep or thinking of something else; it is the Other Man.

The stomach does not digest the food automatically. Digestion is a very complicated process; no automatic machine could possibly accomplish it; foods differ; some of them must be kept in the stomach longer than others; the various juices secreted by the stomach must be supplied in just the right quantity and at just the right time. Hence the stomach, the doctors say, is controlled by the nervous system. As a matter of fact, however, it is this Other Man that attends to the whole business, so that you see he really must be quite a wonderful fellow.

If you ascend a mountain from sea level to six thousand feet the number of red corpuscles in your blood must be considerably altered or you will get into trouble. The Other Man attends to all that.

When you run fast you get out of breath; that is to say, your body has used up the blood more quickly and the lungs must work harder to purify the blood stream; so the Other Man pumps more vigorously at the lung-windmill, and speeds up the heart engine.

If you cut yourself and bleed, the Other Man is immediately on the job; he attends to making a blood clot which will stop the wound, and the scab to cover it; he calls the little workmen of the blood to repair the injury and they all work away so fast under his direction that the place grows hot, and we say it is feverish. New skin must be formed, severed tissues knitted up and general repairs made, so that this Other Man is like a railway boss who hastens to the place where the train has been wrecked, and keeps his workmen busy till the line has been cleared.

When you walk the Other Man attends to it. He gives the orders that make your feet go and you can talk or look at the scenery or otherwise amuse yourself.

Sometimes a man playing a piano will go ahead with his tune and talk to you at the same time. The Other Man is playing that piece.

This Other Man is strangely independent of the Ego. You do not have to tell him what to do. In fact, the more you let him alone and do not bother him, the more perfectly he does his work. If, for instance, you think about your digestion this Other Man is likely to go on a strike and give you indigestion, just to teach you to mind your own business.

For all that, the Man and the Other Man are intimately connected. When the Man is sad the Other Man squeezes water from the eye; when the Man is ashamed the Other Man blushes; when the Man is frightened the Other Man draws the blood away from the face and makes the hair stand on end; when the Man is amused the Other Man pulls the corners of the mouth up toward the ears.

Altogether it is the most remarkable partnership in the world.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THAT "ELASTIC" TARIFF

[Chicago News]

Once more the American farm bureau federation directs attention to an unexpected and unfortunate result of the so-called "All-American tariff" law.

The Canadian cattle trade has been transferred to Great Britain, thanks to the duties imposed on cattle for the supposed protection of American farmers and livestock men. It was the practice of American farmers to buy in Canada high-grade animals and fatten them for the American market. Now these animals are sent to Great Britain, which in recent months has removed the long-standing embargo on Canadian cattle. American farmers thus have lost what was a profitable business, and in addition, have to face the competition of the products of Canadian cattle—dressed beef chiefly—in British markets.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A dispatch from Omaha begins thus: "Automobiles are simply ruining the farmers of Nebraska. And what is true of Nebraska farmers is probably true of farmers of other western states."

HENRY JAMES.

The figures adduced in proof of the assertion are startling. If verified in detail there seems no hope for agriculture save in banishing the automobile, and stepping backwards twenty years or so in the matter of equipment and convenience. But why should the statistician jump at the farmer? Surely a man who cultivates a quarter section to a section of land, is as much entitled to an automobile as the city chap of ordinary income who believes it impossible to get along without one of the modern vehicles. One difference is that the farmer needs the automobile, and in a large proportion of cases, the city chap merely thinks he needs it.

If the Nebraska figures are accurate, the panacea for hard times on the farm is manifest and available. It consists of getting rid of the automobile. This accomplished, the farmer no longer need worry that he gets only sixty cents for his wheat. Apparently he will have no pressing need even for the sixty cents.

Somebody remarked, while in thoughtful mood that there were three kinds of prevarications: liars, damn liars and statisticians.

Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, says:

"I damn with all the power I've got, the plea that we should recognize the soviet government of Russia and I do it knowing full well that a number of our senators and congressmen are taking special trips arranged by Lenine and Trotzky and reporting conditions over there as those two would have them see the conditions."

Same here. As a distinguished American, now passed on, would have said: "Bully for you!"

A man of good stand socially and financially is caught in the act of burglary. Rather than be actually captured, he leaps from a second story window. The bones of his leg fail to stand the strain, so he is taken after all.

People wonder why he turned burglar. He says himself that he doesn't know.

Any woman within the possibility of suspicion of killing her husband should be careful of the small details of the conduct marking her widowhood. For example, a woman now actually accused of such crime had told the police that the watch of her late husband had been stolen. Against this appears the allegation that she had given the watch away. She said there had been no pistol in the house, and yet she is alleged to have disposed of two such weapons. However, the case is not, and will not be tried here.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

HIS OWN

Dan planted a garden. His father gave him a bit of ground and let him have whatever seeds he asked for out of his own assortment.

"Take what you want," said father. "It's just as much fun to me to raise beans as it is to raise radishes. Help yourself to what you like best though."

"I think," said Dan with wrinkled brow, "I think I will specialize in beans."

"Very well. You know beans are cranky and sometimes they rust, and you must not touch them when they are wet?"

"Yes, but I like beans! I'll sow the ones that don't rust so easy."

True to his word he specialized in beans and had fine ones coming along at a time when father had none. "When my beans get ripe I'm going to pick them and see how long the longest one is. I bet I'll have a longer one than Dad Romer. He says he grows the best beans ever, but I bet mine's better'n his."

"You're a real gardner, Dan. Just as soon as you begin beating the neighbors you're done for. You'll be gardening forever just like me."

That pleased Dan immensely and he gardened harder than ever. One evening there was company for dinner. Said the visitor, "What lovely tender beans. Delicious! Where did you get them?"

"Danny raised those," said mother beaming. "They are really fine. Have some more."

Danny stared in astonishment. He laid down his knife and fork and stared at his mother. Afterward he said, "Who picked my beans?"

"Why I did," said mother. "They were just the thing I needed for dinner. Lucky you grew them!"

Danny burst into tears. "You had no business to pick my beans. You had no business to. I wanted to see if mine was the longest and now you went and spoiled it all. You had no business to!"

"You silly thing! Not pick beans? How foolish! They were ready to pick. What's the matter with you? That's what they are for, isn't it? To eat? Isn't it? Crying over beans! Go long with you before I lose all patience."

But something had to be done about it. Gardeners are like that. You simply must not pick their beans. They will gladly give them to you. They do not want them as beans. They grow them and pick them and give them, but they are benefit if an alien hand reaps the harvest. Especially are children that way.

Beside all that, the garden and the beans belong to Dan and his rights should have been observed. Unless you teach him that you respect his property he will not respect that of other people. Not even yours! Ask him for the beans or the flowers or the chickens he has raised.

Ask him about the things he calls his, so that he will never charge you with injustice and build a wall between you and him that rises blankly, solidly to confront you in your loneliness.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Last night the Missus and I were getting ready to go to the theater. The Missus, now and then, has what might be called her savage moments. Last night she was displeased with me, with the weather, with the mud, with the dinner, with the universe.

"You go alone," I said. "I'll not go with you. You would only spoil my fun."

We had a terrible time of it, but I prevailed. That is, neither one of us went, and we telephoned all over the neighborhood to find some one to take the tickets as a gift. Most of our neighbors seemed to think there was a catch in it somewhere. They declined with a note of "ah-yah, smarty" in their voices.

But I was right, and maybe Mrs. Pilgrim will take the hint. If one person of a pair is bad tempered the other is at once infected. If she had rasped at the show it would have been only a matter of minutes before I would have rasped at her. I might be enjoying the performance ever so much, but if she kept whispering acidly in my ear:

"Doesn't the leading lady look old? And sort of sick? And how very unpleasant are the legs of the juvenile! Extremely silly plot, yes?"

Half way through the first act I would have been ready to do murder, but at the end of the act I would have been so completely disgusted that I would want to go home. It has happened that way scores of times. Sometimes the one who starts the evening with a sour grouch has worked through it by the end of the first act and is willing to be happy. But by that time the other one has gone bad.

Of course, these unpleasantnesses might be avoided if either one had the common courtesy—the ordinary kindness—to pretend to be good natured in order that the other's fun shall not be spoiled. But we can't play that game. We're too human.

Bret Harte's classic of California in the brave, wild Fifties. Actually filmed in its original setting — among the great Redwoods of the Santa Cruz mountains.

The rugged town of Red Dog, the quaint Harte characters, the sweeping action, the typical Harte humanness—all have been transferred to the screen with absolute fidelity.

PRESS CARRIERS DEFEAT ALHAMBRA PRESS YOUTHS

Again the Glendale Daily Press carrier boys' baseball team were the victors. The losing team was the Alhambra Post carrier boys and the game was played on Tuesday at Alhambra. Because of the speed of the Glendale team and the large number of home runs made the game was stopped at the end of the fifth inning. At the close of the game the members of the teams were entertained at luncheon by Preston Vaughn, circulation manager of the Alhambra Post. The Glendale team returned looking for "more worlds to conquer."

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE MELLOW FRUIT

A mellow apple, ripe and sweet,
That hung through all the summer's heat;
That knew the chill and damp of rain
In early spring, when down the lane
The gusty showers swept; that knew
The Junetime with its skies of blue,
And the sere days and fields and all
The earth beneath the spell of Fall.

A mellow apple, cheeks all red
From the sun standing overhead
In the midsummer, and grown sweet
From its full ripening and complete.
Through the sour stage of greenness passed
And rich with mellowness at last,
To glad the eye and with the wrung
And zestful juices please the tongue.

And there are mellow souls I know
That with the storms that come and go,
And with the rains and winds and sun
With griefs and joys that one by one
Have followed through the days and years
With their resulting smiles and tears,
Yes, there are mellow souls and sweet
Whose ripening has been complete.

A mellow apple on a tree,
A mellow soul, with sympathy
And all the smiles and graces wrought
From joys serene and struggles hot,
How quite alike they are, with all
The days have brought from Spring to F..
Until at last grown rich and sweet,
With all the ripening complete.

T. D. & L. THEATRE MANAGER WINS RECOGNITION

H. A. Albright Awarded July Prize for Highest Efficiency

Congratulations of the most congratulatory sort are due H. A. Albright, manager of the T. D. & L. theater on North Brand boulevard, for he has been presented with the Turner, Dahnken & Langley $50 prize for efficiency in management of all the theaters of the company during July.

H. A. ALBRIGHT

Patrons of the T. D. & L. in Glendale have shown deep appreciation for Mr. Albright's policy since he came to Glendale in February, and are ready to offer their congratulations upon his recognized success. This honor bestowed upon Mr. Albright is magnified, when it is considered that the management of the entire chain of theaters known as the T. D. & L. circuit, have been studied in the bestowing of this prize. The Turner, Dahnken & Langley circuit operates high class theaters in Pasadena, Los Angeles and in other cities throughout the United States.

Mr. Albright is aptly characterized as the all-around manager. Not only is he efficient in writing all of the theater's advertising matter, but is expert in presentation. All posters in pictures are also credited to his ability, and his knowledge of film and vaudeville selection is thorough.

Prior to coming to Glendale, Mr. Albright was with the Jensen-Von Herberg circuit, which is one that is well known in theater circles, operating big theaters in Butte, Mont., Tacoma, Seattle and other large cities.

Does Fear Put a Tax on Your Pocket-Book?

Fear is a partner in the sale of many a quart of high-priced motor oil. The motorist pays for added protection that he does not get. The extra money usually goes into long-haul transportation and high merchandising costs.

Zerolene, produced on the Pacific Coast and often selling for half as much as other oils, reduces friction and wear to a greater extent than any other motor lubricant we have seen and tested or been able to produce. It is a better oil — even if it does cost less. Ask for it by name — Zerolene.
